PRAY THE ROSARY

Thirty-Second Sunday In Ordinary Time

Application of the Gospel Readings today: As Christians, our hope is grounded in our belief in the resurrection of the dead. In this Sunday's Gospel, Jesus encounters some people who do not believe in resurrection. Jesus' response to the Sadducees shows that sometimes we miss the most important things about what God has planned for us because we get stuck in the details of human existence. Jesus wants us to open our minds and hearts to the possibilities that God has in store for us. Our faith tells us that when we die our life is changed, not ended. This is good news because we know that we will continue to share a relationship with God even after our death..... loyolapress.com

Liturgy Notes: Last week, we noted that when we come to church on Sunday (or any weekday Mass), we are entering into worship which is taking place already in Heaven, and which we will join for a time, then leave and return to our homes, while the celebration in Heaven carries on. But we will have been touched in a unique way by our encounter with God, and having had this brush with holiness, we are returning to the world to change it just a little bit more into the Kingdom of God. And so the life of every baptized person is this very rhythm: back and forth from encountering God in worship, to being his presence in the World, and to bring that encounter back again in offering, thanksgiving and worship. It is the rhythm of Source and Summit (which we also explored in an earlier bulletin – still available online!). When we cross the threshold of the church building, we are entering into a microcosm of the Kingdom of God, so that by spending a little time here, we will be sent forth into the World to transform it bit by bit, person by person, into the Kingdom of God as much as it can be realized on Earth. You and I are to be agents of that transformation. This is our mission as Christians, a mission of every baptized person, to change the World by the divine love of God shown forth in all that we say and do. And so when we come to church, we should desire to be changed. We should hold our lives up to God, and say, Not my will, but yours, be done. Forgive us our trespasses so that we can be seen to be holy as you are holy. And give us our daily bread, your precious Body and Blood to transform us into the Body of Christ. Consider how the Lord's Prayer is such a perfect prayer to open yourself to being drawn into the holiness of God, and say it with every fibre of desire that you can summon up within your heart. ....Fr. John-Mark Missio

Little Levity: "Brad" Marg yelled! "We should take the kids camping with this nice weather. We need to get back to nature" Sitting in his comfy chair, with his feet up, his well worn robe on, reading his paper, Brad slowly turned to Marg and with a scowl on his face, and yelled "I'm not going camping. If you wanna get back to nature, take the bug screen out of the window for half an hour and stick your head out!"
